Each Fall, Activities Go on Parade

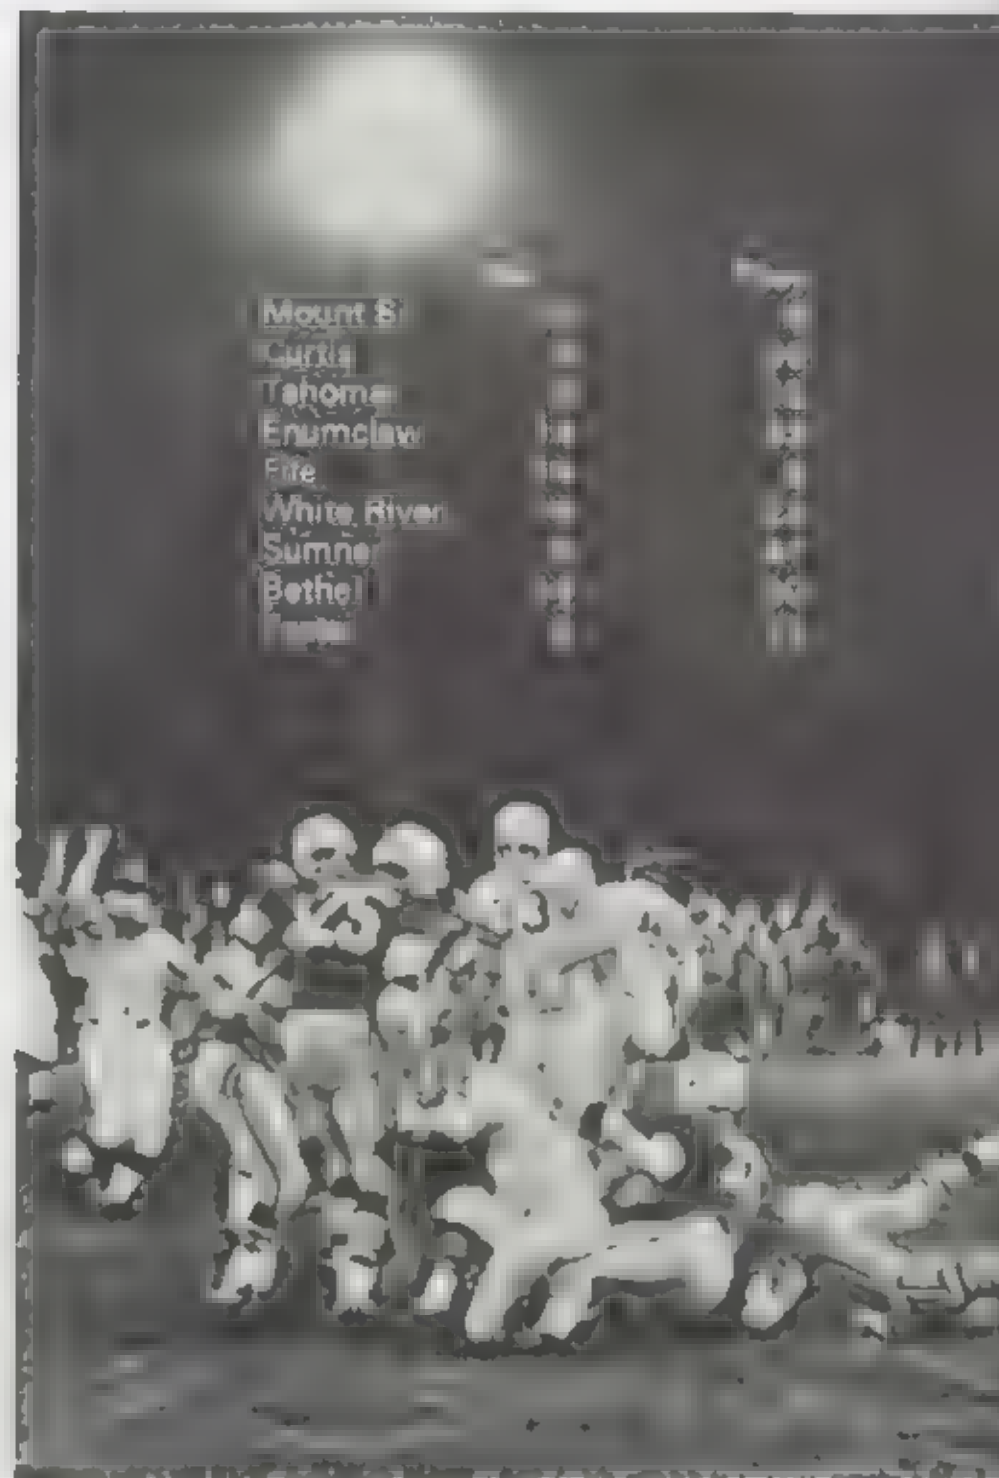

Aliveness, awareness, and responsiveness marked the 916 students who entered the doors of Peninsula this fall. Each one of them was an individual but all united together as a student body. They were not all here for the same reason. Some came each day for the educational background or for the fun of activities and social life, and others because of parental pressure.

Fall brought with it many new things. There were exciting hard fought football games highlighted by a Homecoming victory. In addition to construction on the new large group instruction center an idle gym was coming to life once again. This sparked anticipation in the basketball team for the time when they could have their own special "homecoming." Sharing this feeling were the band, choir and drama students who were all eager to return to their own facilities.

A Long Season for Grid

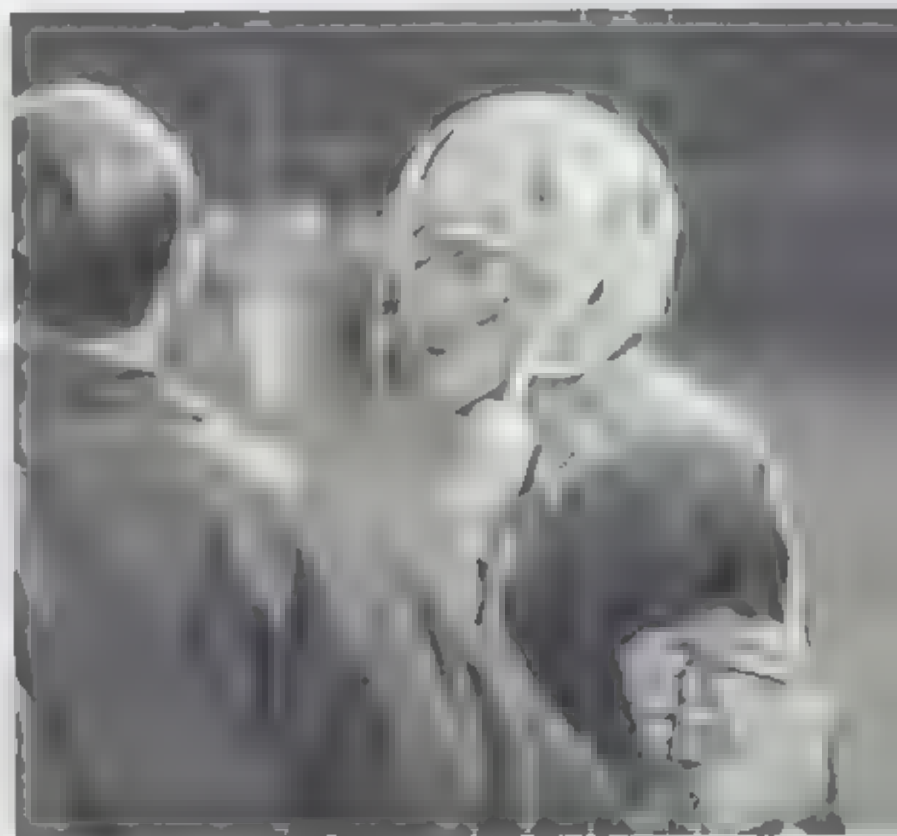

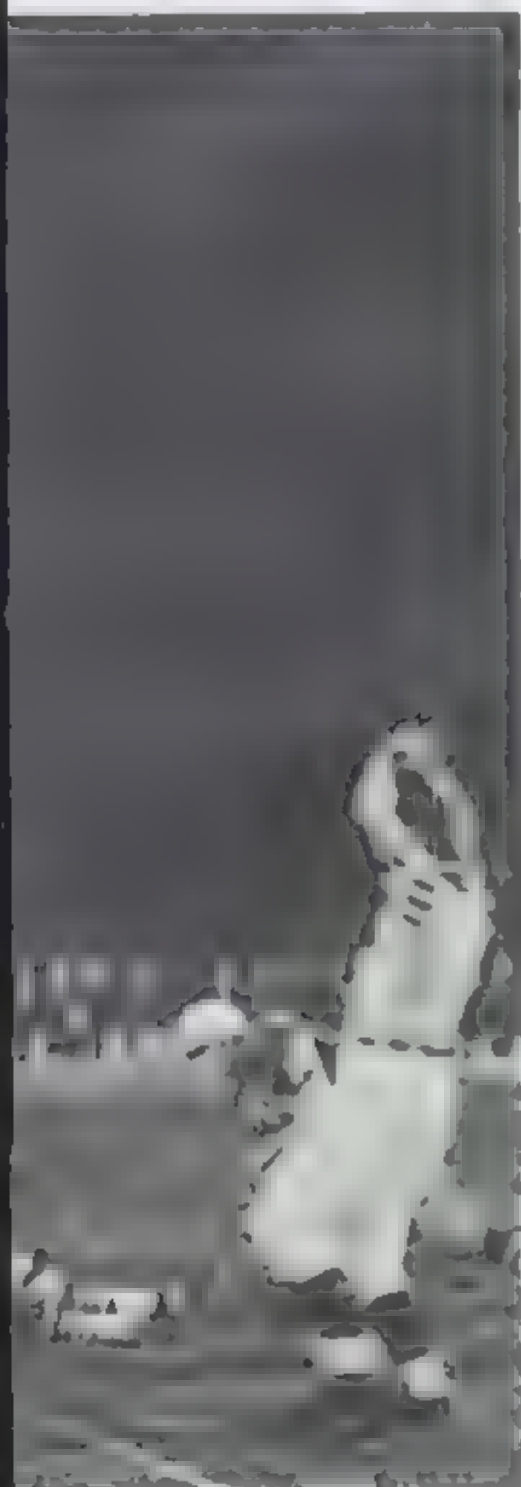

There is nothing more exhilarating than winning and experiencing the feeling that comes when the individual and separate players have united to form a smooth, well structured team.

But it's lonely when that uniting spark just doesn't come. It's lonely when the gears don't mesh and those carefully rehearsed plays don't quite work. And there is nothing lonelier than losing and having to analyze your contribution to that loss.

I'm always trying to fire them up to make them tough. You can't win unless you're tougher and more eager to win than the other team. I hope that if I'm psyched it will help get them that way too.

Mud, sweat, and tears . . . Football is one of the very demanding fall sports, physically as well as mentally. They say that playing football can make a man of you, and maybe it's true. For it's on the turf that the decision must be made to do something while knowing well that consequences must be paid. From the field the player comes bruised, battered, muddy, and tired but with a satisfied feeling that he did his job well.

except for that one block he missed which will haunt him deep inside. But there is the learning to accept this, the trying harder next time, the ignoring of the bruises for the necessity of concentration on the next play. This strong individual self conviction to do what needs to be done is what helps build men.

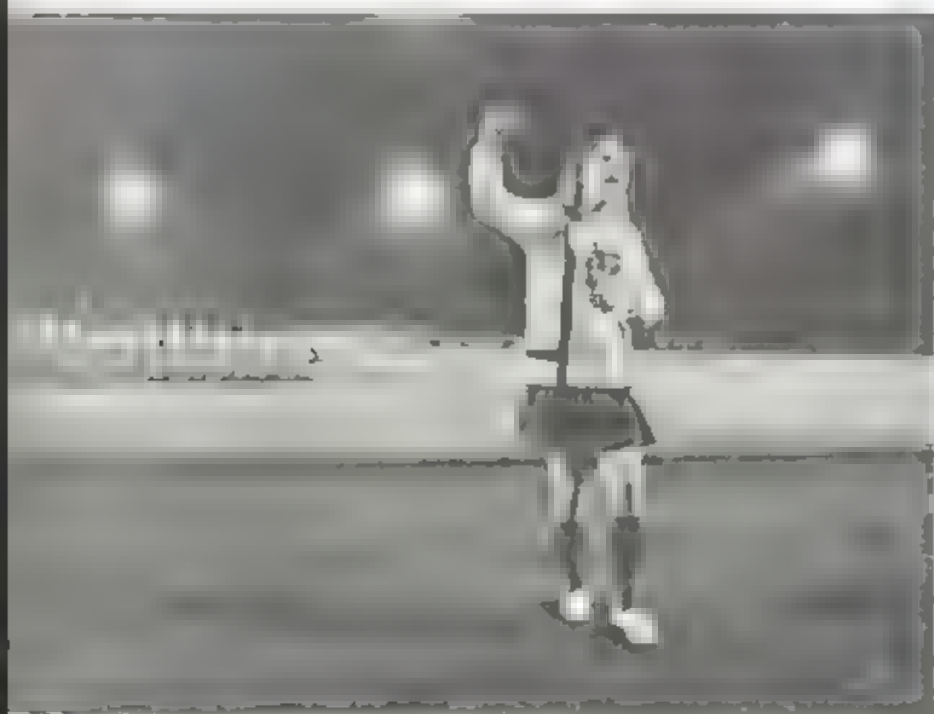

The season record of our 1970 football team did not indicate how well and with how much spirit our team played. Chief culprits in making this so seemed to be the unexpected number of injuries at the beginning of the season and throughout the year, and that funny-shaped ball that always seemed to bounce away from our grid men. The two victories against seven defeats came from Mt. Si in the league opener and against Fife in our Homecoming game. Coach Pulisevich stated that there were only two games in which the team was outplayed and this was because of lack of experience. The team produced a lot of thrills and anxious moments for the crowd.

Not identified are Marc Ross, who received allstar player and Mike Darling Co-captain.

Water Polo: A New Challenge at PHS

Water polo, a new sport here this year which didn't draw a lot of attention produced a team that took fourth place in the state meet against several larger and more experienced teams. The sport is one that combines many of the skills of basketball the offensive ability to dribble, pass, and shoot the ball and the defensive challenge of guarding each man closely in an effort to nullify his offensive moves. Endurance weighs heavily in the sport because the player must keep in constant motion to remain above water and keep in position.

Our seven-man team had a 4-3 record in the league play and showed much improvement as the season progressed. They gained a knowledge of the skills involved by watching other teams play in the games as well as by their own practices. By the end of the season they were playing good matches with experienced teams that had beaten them badly in their first matches.

Girls' Swim Team Stresses Consistent Practice;

The first girls' competitive swim team was established at Peninsula this year.

Girls from grades 9-12 turned-out under the coaching of Julie Crosby. The season ended with a 4-3 record. The team placed fourth out of nine teams at the district relays.

Four girls from Peninsula represented the team at the state meet, November 14th at Highline Community College.

Senior Patty Elmore qualified in three events, the 50 and the 100 free style and the 100 backstroke.

Connie Thrall, a junior, also qualified in three events the 200 individual medley, 100 backstroke and the 100 breast stroke.

Junior Kelli Leonard qualified in the 200 individual medley, and Maureen O'Donnell, also a junior, qualified in the one meter diving competition.

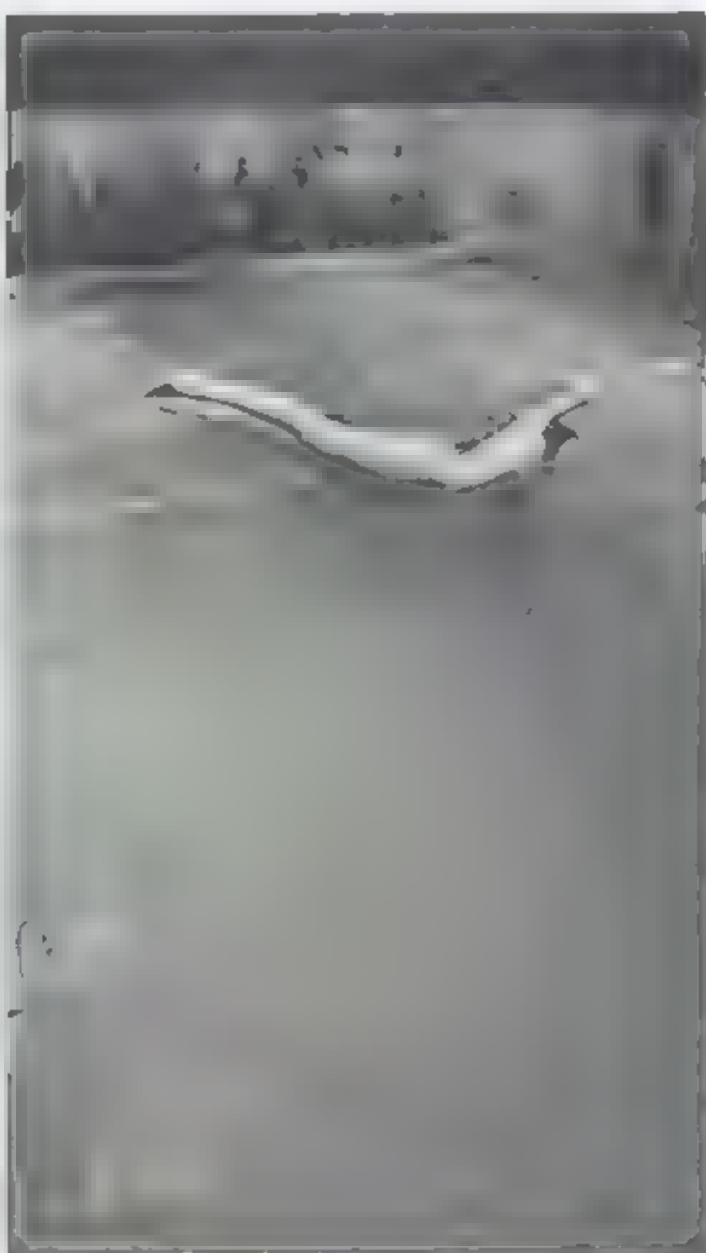

COACH CROSBY'S 1-2-3 (top left) leads to an outstanding win against Aberdeen.

THANK GOODNESS (top right) were the words of Patty Elmore as she won a hard fought battle in the fifty yard free style.

Cross Country Yields 110%

There is little glory to be found in the struggles of a cross country runner, but always you will find him running, running to improve himself. The glory he does get does not come from other people around him, but from deep inside himself. It is a feeling of accomplishment, a goal fulfilled a time broken.

All through the cold rainy days of fall, our cross country team worked to improve themselves. They ran up and down hills, and through puddles only to find themselves spotted with mud, dripping wet, and dead tired, with no one to greet them when they finished.

This year, our cross country team enjoyed their most successful season in their five year history here. After all was tallied, they finished with a 6-4 record and a 3-4 record in league contests. The thrill of victory and agony of the feet were well known to these persistent road men.

Leading the team on were Chuch McGinty, Bruce Bronson, and Aaron Lind. After the end of the regular season, Bruce went on to finish 8th in the sub-district meet to qualify for the district meet and 3rd in the Curtis invitational meet.

Golfers Swing with Top Performance

Golf is a very challenging sport because of the frustration involved. It requires technique and the skill of steady and experienced hands. To be good at this sport, you must be mentally psyched for a controlled performance, rather than one of all out energy output. The self confidence in your ability to perform, which is gained from the long hours of practicing shots, whether from in the rough or on the green, usually proves to be highly important in this sport of nerves.

The 1970 Peninsula divot diggers finished middle of the league with a 8-10 record. Coach Smith's hard work paid off with outstanding efforts from the entire team. The two most outstanding performances came from Ron Baker. Ron, the captain's inspiration award winner, shot a 3 under par 31 for a course record at Lake Wilderness and set a league record for the course at Brookdale with a 1 under par 35. These two performances set the pace for the rest of the team.

Long, Exhausting Rehearsals

Applause from the audience is one of the awards a performer receives. For applause he will work 7 days a week for 2 months constantly working on fine points often ignored by the audience, but essential to make the show mesh.

The other applause a performer receives is from himself and other artists. It comes from knowing that the fine points worked out right. It is a feeling of achieved perfection, and from it you somehow feel a little closer to each of the other people involved in the staging of the play.

to Make Their First Year Count.

They Arrived at Peninsula to Find

Becoming a freshman has always been hard. This is the year to adjust from being the oldest in a familiar school to being the youngest in a new one. The beginning is scary and exciting, but the rapidly moving high school schedule soon becomes routine. This is a big school to get used to, with many new people to meet.

Freshmen became involved in clubs, and tried out for plays. Boys turned out for sports, while girls turned to drill team, G.A.A., and other organizations. At the same time, they helped promote school spirit. Freshmen entered the first of four important and unforgettable years.

The class of '74 arrived in time to witness the renovation of an idle gym, and the construction of a new Performing Arts Building. Hallways were cluttered and blocked off, but the finished product was worth the mess.

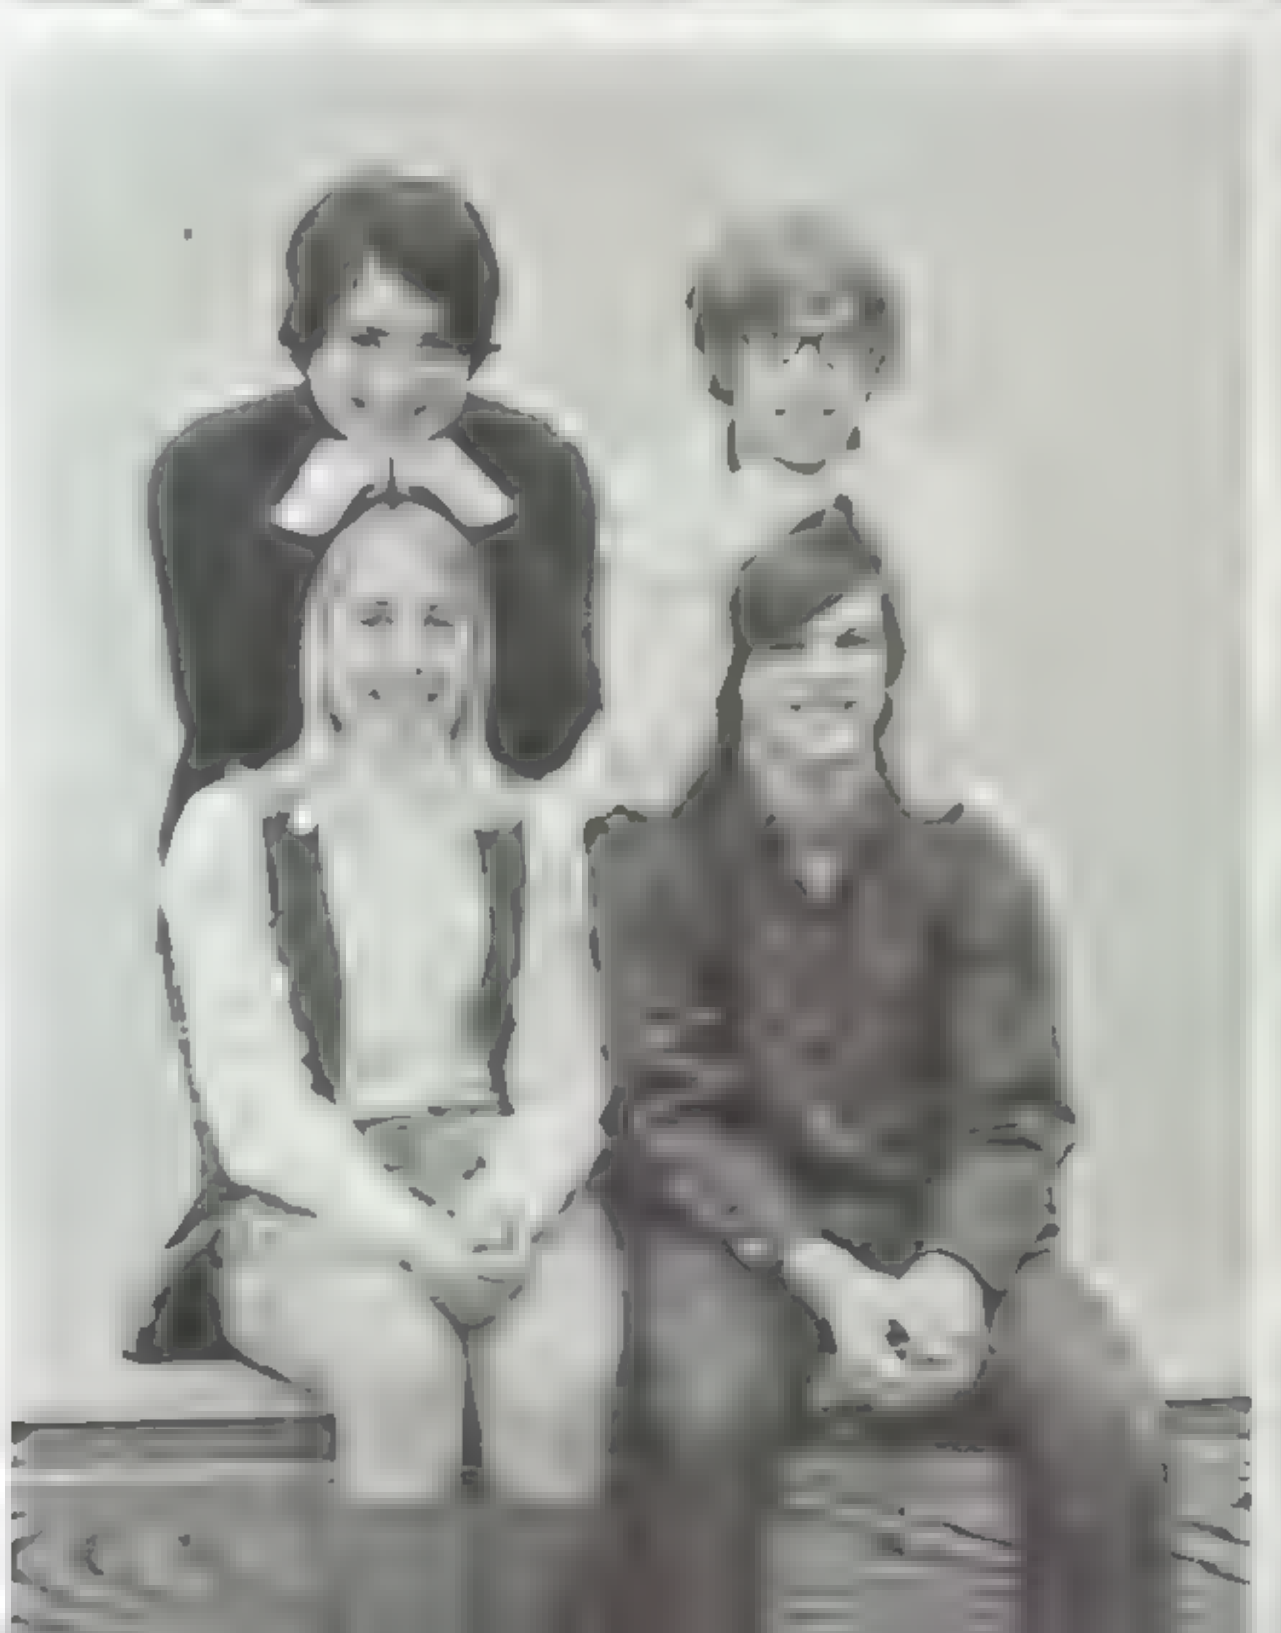

To pull them through their first year, the frosh elected Marty Vietenhans as President, Traci Cozort as Vice-President, Pam Sowers as Secretary, and Janice Miller as Treasurer. The frosh chose Becky Sether and Al Ryan to represent their class as Homecoming Royalty.

The class advisors, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Brindley, were always there to help with any problems the uncertain frosh might have. During their first year, the class of '74 began to take on many new responsibilities. They now feel ready to discard the label "frosh" and accept their new title . . . Sophomores!

New Year on the Winding

Road Leads to New Hopes

New activities and student enthusiasm made the winter season at Peninsula one to remember. The cheerleaders and pep club were especially active as they prepared a progressive dinner and basketball players pep breakfast.

The band and choir had their Christmas concert at Goodman and the Chamber Choir gave a memorable performance at the Tacoma Mall during December. Girls' Club sponsored a class competition food drive which brought in more than 1000 cans for the needy. Seniors once again gained the honor of being 'The Most Generous Class' by winning the competition.

Boys were participating in swimming, basketball, wrestling, rifle, and were involved in school sponsored activities. Key Clubers worked hard selling Christmas trees for the new gym bleachers, and Torch members had tutoring underway topped off by a Christmas party. Spontaneous Christmas carolling in the halls December 18 was a welcomed class interruption. Winter was in full swing with skiing—either individual or through ski club. Parties were given by several groups in the school. The Spanish-German club party featured foreign Christmas carols and our exchange students. Peninsula students were able to look forward to the "Best of Everything" in the new year.

Again this year Peninsula High School had exchange students from various parts of the world. From Mexico came Georgina Penz Aristi and Louis Dominguez. From Costa Rica came Gioconda Zuniga and Maria Herrera. And from Germany came Jutta Richter.

These students participated enthusiastically in school activities. Some saw interscholastic competitions. But all enjoyed an American Christmas.

With so many new things to see and to do these students will have many stories to tell their friends about the exciting time they spent at Peninsula High.

Meanwhile, Peninsula High School sent two students to Germany. Melinda Wellsandt and Jim Bannon are spending a year in Hamburg at the Peter Peterson School. Summer exchange students who spent six weeks in Mexico included Tamara Hulme, Priscilla Hill, Kathy Hamerick, Phil Kezele, Cathy Parks, and Scott Aspmann.

Basketball is a sport that gives rewards for agility quickness, and the stamina to maintain the needed degree of fast reflexes. It's a balanced attack of shooting, rebounding, dribbling, and passing by the whole team that must be combined in harmony to produce a good game.

This year's squad consisted of many players whom the coach felt were nearly equal in ability.

The team seemed to gain confidence in their ability to play as the season progressed. This became evident during the middle of the season in the form of better ball control which resulted in closer scores and more wins. Most notable of the victories captured by the team was the 54-50 decision over Mt. Si, the seventh ranked team in the state.

The predominately Junior squad was led on by the inspiring play of four returning Seniors.

for Recognition

To the spectators, wrestling is a sport of one man's strength against that of another. This becomes apparent during a match from the first time that contact is made.

But wrestling is a lot more than just strength. It involves skills that are first learned from observing, but mastered only by the experiences on the mat against teammates or rivals during inter-schoolastic meets.

Every match is a war in itself, a six minute battle to the spectators, but an infinitely longer and more meaningful one to the participants. An interesting aspect of each match that differentiates it from most other sports is that it puts only contestants of the same weight against each other. This allows smaller individuals to compete on the basis of skill and relative body strength, without weight handicaps that would lessen their chance otherwise.

This year, with the re opening of the gym the wrestling team was able to have some home matches. With more spectators there it seemed to boost the grapplers moral.

Rifle Team Fights to Stay on Top

The person who studies the art of rifle control quickly learns the importance of concentration. Only by this means can he achieve the consistent high scores needed to be a top competitor.

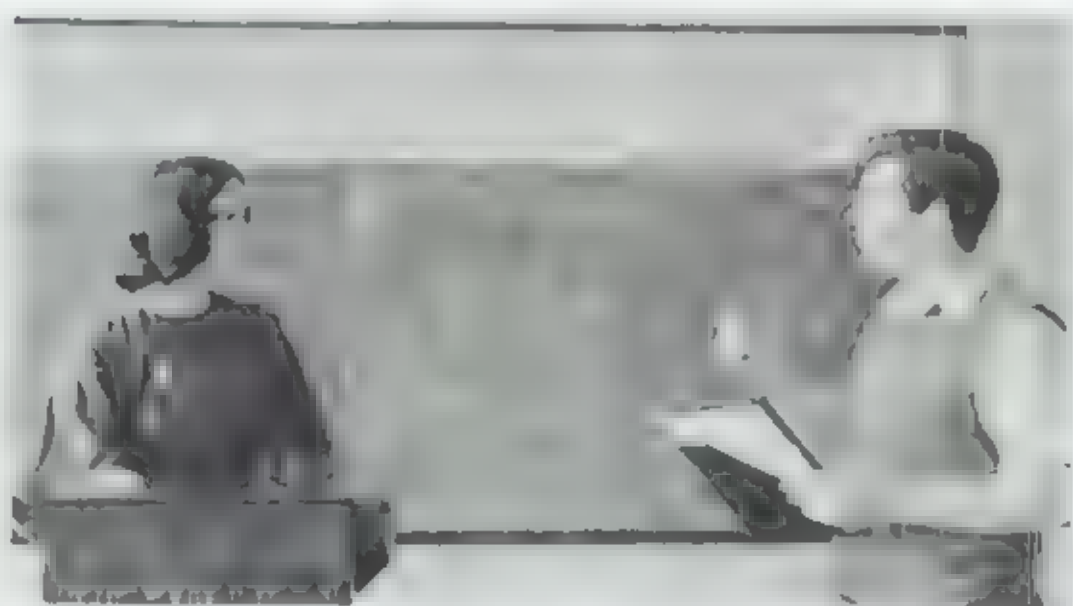

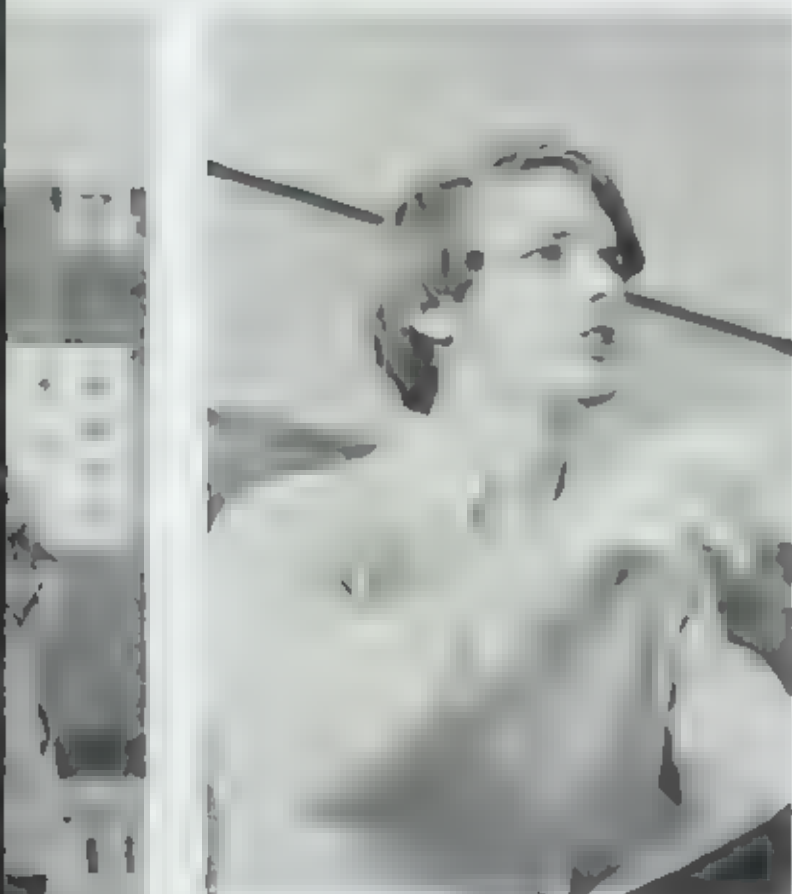

Experienced shooters learn to gain the control for each shot more quickly and easily than beginners. They also know not to rush into shooting and find out how to control their nerves and anxieties, which otherwise would lessen their possibilities for a good score.

This year's team again expected to stay in top contention in their competitive league. After two matches Coach Butler found his team in third place, but he was expecting to improve that standing as the season progressed. Top shooters during this season were Guy Leonard, a four-year veteran, and Mark Husteler, top shooter from last year's Tyros.

Debaters Bring Home Awards

This year's debate team was concerned with the timely topic of pollution control. The debaters combined research, imagination, and interest to perform skillfully at league tournaments. First-year coach, Mrs. Manning, added energy, guidance, and experience to a winning season. The debaters also participated well in individual events.

Four seniors—Mark Hayward, Rob Jones, Chen Cozort, and Janet Bogue—completed their high school debating careers this year and turned debate leadership over to sophomores Joe Fischer and Sherry Moller.

Enthusiastic Swimmers Succeed

Swimming, unusual in comparison to other sports of endurance, tests the ability of many sets of muscles instead of concentrating mainly on just one. After a hard, self pushing effort in the pool, a swimmer will find that not only are his arms and legs tired, but his entire body is exhausted as well. As in many sports, it is the self determination to do well that makes you good. But unlike other sports, a swimmer has to punish his whole body to get the desired result—a first place finish and a better time.

This year's team showed the self determination needed right from the beginning of the season, and was expected to finish as high as 12th in the state. Coach Streeter encouraged the team on, and found that they have improved more in their first two years than other teams in the league have in five.

Swimming is mainly an individual sport, but this year's team showed that they were also a very close-knit bunch. It was necessary for the team to work together all year to get the league and school recognition that they deserved.

Tradition Fell Under

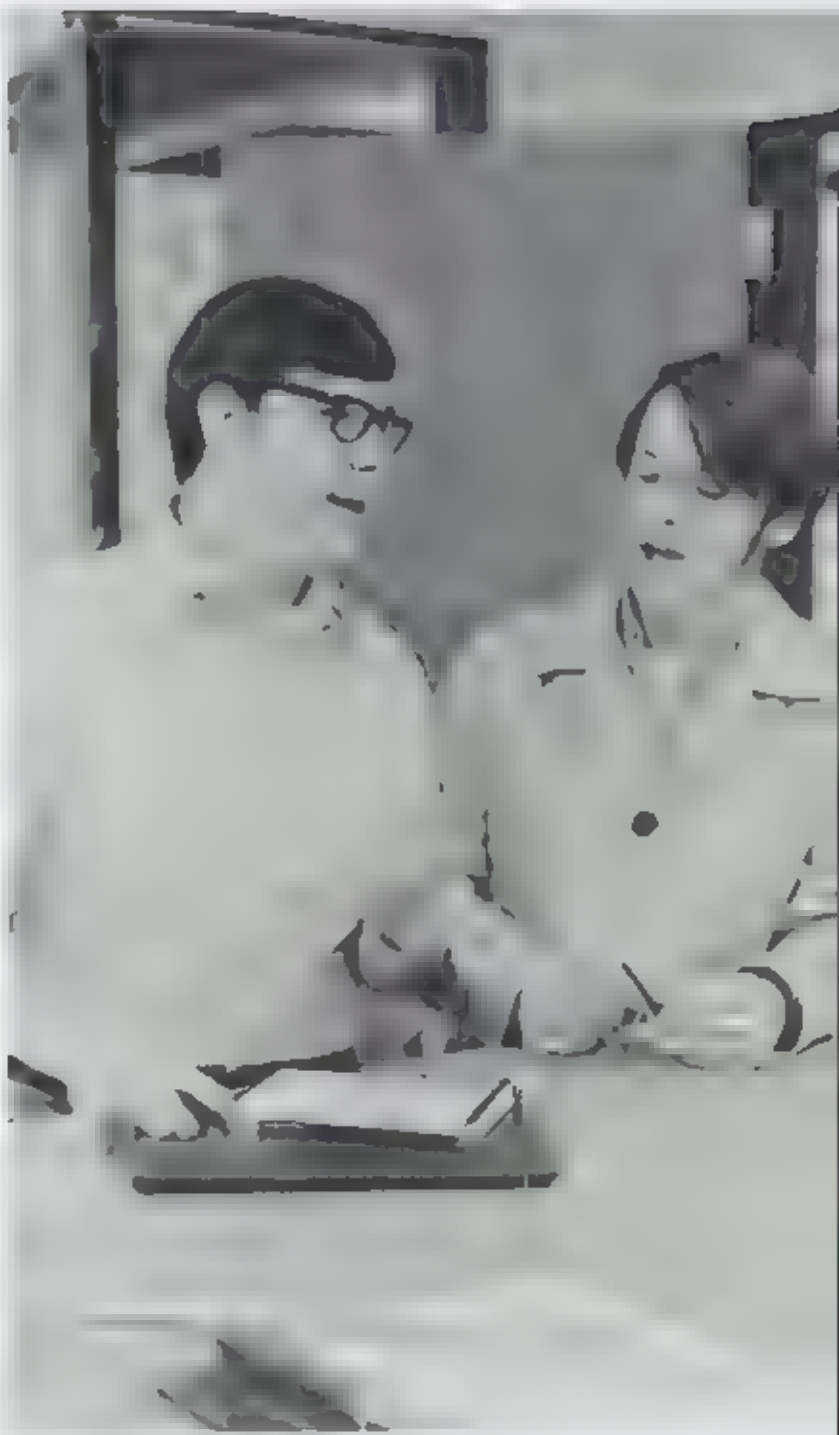

The Annual Staff under the advisorship of Mrs. Wise completed a task greater than the ones they usually undertake every year. This year the editors of Kwahaes decided they needed and wanted sixteen extra pages. So Sue Bucholz and Rick Peterson brought the issue before the student council. After much debate the Annual Staff won with one stipulation—they had to earn the one thousand dollars needed to buy the extra pages. By selling ads to merchants throughout the Peninsula location and by receiving donations from parents of the Student Body, the annual staff raised more than one thousand dollars, something no annual staff has ever done thus providing us with a larger book for the year '70-71.

the Power of New Ideas

In the past it has been the duty of the school paper, the Outlook, to inform the Student Body of activities happening in and around the school. And this year, due to the supervision of Miss Mostoier and co-editors Rob Jones and Janet Bogue, the paper staff has continued to keep the Student Body aware of the problems the school faces every day.

New Program Consists of Symphonic

There were many changes affecting Peninsula High's band department this year. No longer did there exist the traditional Concert band, consisting of mostly upperclassmen, nor the Cadet band, made up of mostly freshmen. A new program concerning the band issue was devised during the end of the 1970 school year under the authority of band director Mr. Marc Armstrong.

There were still two bands in the new program. The Symphonic band consists of select members chosen by the music department heads. The Symphonic band entertained at the two major concerts of the year and also represented Peninsula at the Seamount League Festival held at Mt. Si in February.

The other band, known as the Concert band, also played at the concerts presented by Peninsula High School. In addition to this, they provided entertainment at all our home football and basketball games. They also represented us in three parades, the Veterans Day and Daffodil Parades (both held in Tacoma) and the Harbor Holidays Parade.

With the renovation of the gym, the bands were forced to vacate the old Music Room. They moved into the freshman study hall room in late October. This served as their headquarters until the new band room, located in the Performing Arts Building, was completed and ready for use in mid January. With the completion of the new auditorium, the bands, along with the choral groups, were able to perform at the high school for the first time in two years.

Choir Moves in 70-71

Mr. Boyd was pleased to find himself surrounded with a great deal of interest this year's short subjects. The growing excitement of moving into the new building sparked all of the members of the board to work hard in their drive for excellence. The hard work of the carpenter and chamber boys plus the extra time spent by the Swingers and Nomads paid off in several great performances. Included in these were the costumes, the arm at the Second Mad line character festival and the Spring concert.

This year Peninsula's drill team became larger. With the addition of thirteen freshmen in October, the 1970-71 Hawkettes were complete. They worked hard to provide half-time entertainment for several football and basketball games. They also performed in various parades. Captain Christy Miller and co-captain Chris Anderson conducted Tuesday and Thursday practices with the help of drill team advisor Mrs. Martin.

The ex-frosh return to Peninsula as sophomores. They have one year of high school behind them, and seem to understand things more than they did last year. No longer do they bear the name of shy, timid freshmen.

Sophomores have always been boisterous, and this year's class was no exception. Karen DeWalt, Chen Anderson, Karen Bujacich, and Cathy Doyle, the J.V. cheerleaders, helped their fellow students use this quality in a constructive way - to promote school spirit.

Sophomores enjoyed their second Homecoming, and became more involved in the special activities of the week. Competition with the juniors in a noisy unscheduled pep rally one day during lunches made another exciting event. To climax the week, sophs voted Bill Gardner and Tracy Barry to royalty as prince and princess.

Soon the class of '73 found that high school becomes progressively harder, but along with extra work, comes more fun. To help carry their added responsibilities, the sophomores chose four dependable officers: Mick Martin as president, Rob Gaschk as vice-president, Karen DeWalt as secretary and Bonnie Day as treasurer. Class advisors Mr. Waage and Miss Crosby were available to help with sophomore problems.

It seemed nearly impossible, but as the end of the year rolled around, the sophomores were ready to become juniors - upperclassmen at last!!

SPIRING

Spring is More Than a

The eventful year 1970-71 was quickly coming to an end. Winter sports disappeared but were not forgotten and spring was in full swing. Basketball and wrestling crowds chartered onto the track, baseball and tennis enthusiasts. Each team started the season with the hope of being number one in the state.

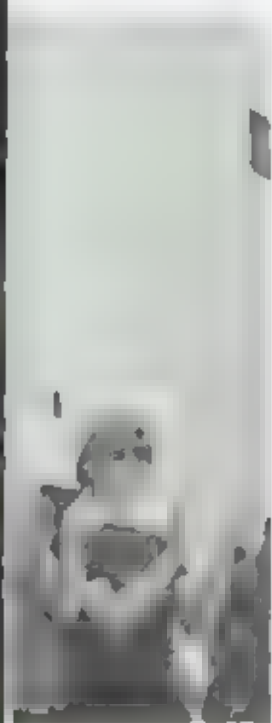

Soon the self-proclaimed "Beautiful and Brave" seniors would be leaving Peninsula High School. During the final months of their reign, these upperclassmen were trying hard to prove that they were the best class. They participated in many projects and did a lot of farewells to their high school days.

Some of these activities were made possible by devoted people such as Janet Payne, Kathy Kelly, and Tina Smith of 1971. For Sue B. and Rick Peterson of the KWAAES, Lisa McDonnell, assistant director of "I Remember Mama" Rotaries and Janet Bogue of the OUTLOOK debate. Mark Hayward, star basketball center, Rick Tarbet, senior Brindley senior class president, outstanding swimmer, Patty Elmore, hard working Barb Sather and Jim Miller, co-chairmen of the 1971 Senior Ball. A.S.B. president Rick Jensen, Becky Finholm, energetic spark of the varsity cheerleaders, Dave Tarabochia, who somehow had an interest in everything, Lynette Kemp, quiet but involved, and Gregg Knowles, famous for his fantastic rendition of "Heartbreak Hotel." These are just a few of the unforgettable members of the Class of '71.

Underclassmen can't help but catch the "Spirit of '71" and it spread throughout the student body.

Club Highlights

for the Year '70-'71

Winter saw Peninsula clubs involved in a wide range of activities.

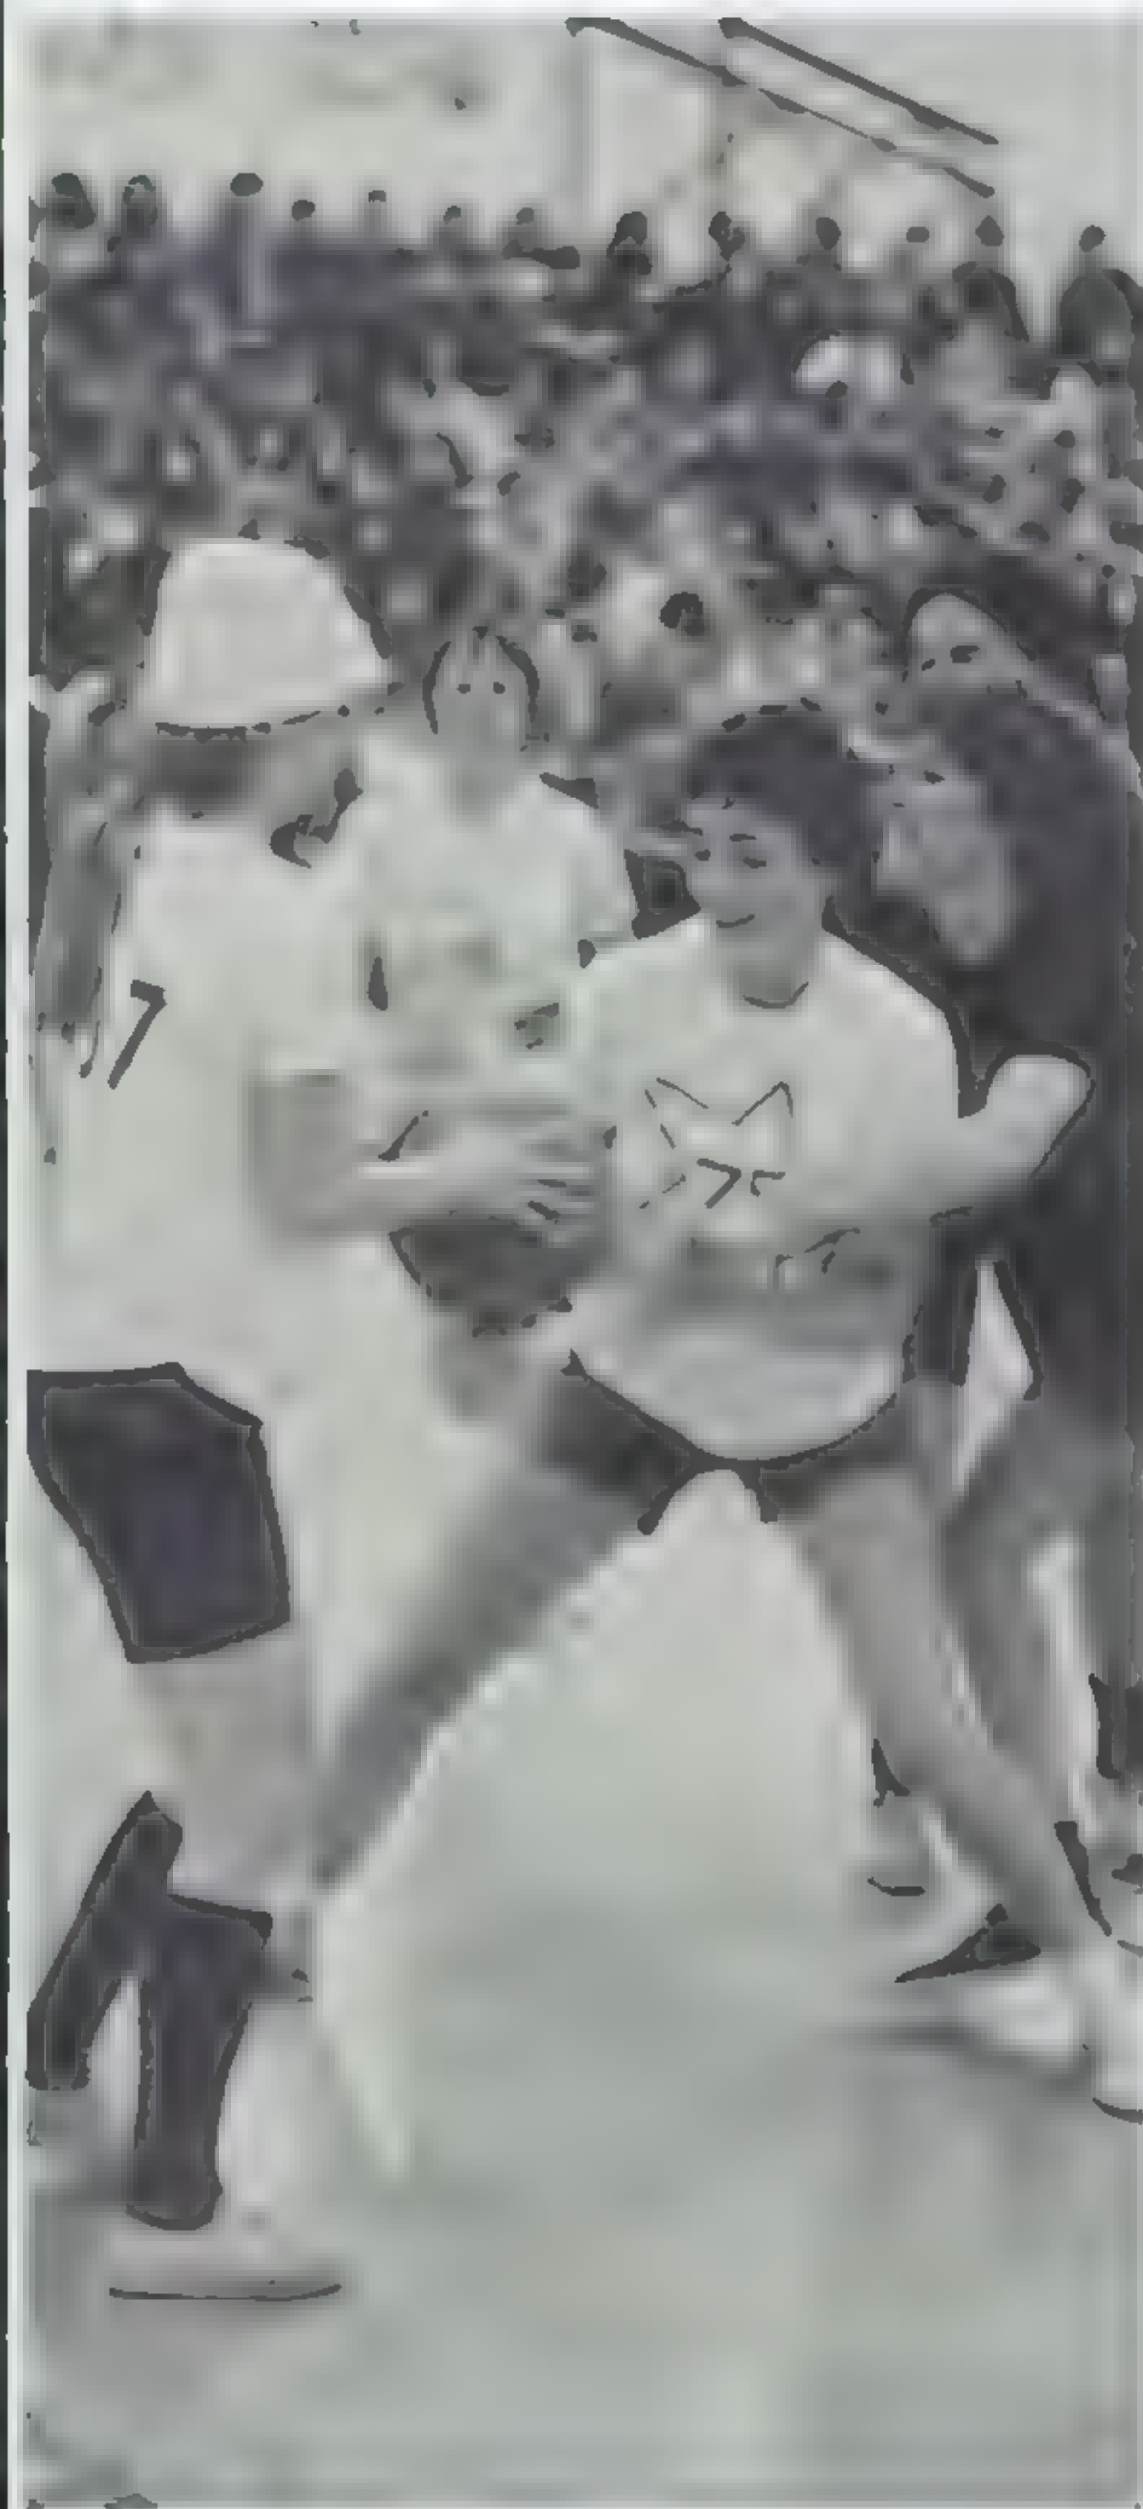

The annual Back to School Night dinner was sponsored by the associated efforts of Torch and S.F.A.

This year the Boys' and Girls' Club worked together to honor the basketball team and celebrate the re-opening of the gymnasium by sponsoring the Hoopcoming. The evening's activities included the first home basketball game and a pie-eating contest.

Showing enthusiasm and best wishes for the basketball season, Pep Club surprised the basketball players with an early morning breakfast in their honor on the morning of the first home game of the season.

It is true that clubs promote competition whether it be Red Cross Skit competition, a rousing game of basketball between the G. A. A. and women faculty or an exciting game between the men faculty and the Lettermen.

But clubs also bring people together and promotes a sense of unification and school spirit. This year Pep Club kept its members busy with many enthusiastic activities. Among them there was a progressive dinner in which the members went from house to house for each various course of the meal.

F. T. A. brought a different sense of unification. This year F. T. A. concentrated on student teachers for the students in Purdy Elementary.

Baseball

Peninsula's Baseball team started early this year to improve their last year's record of an 8-7 season. With a high number of returning lettermen it provided a great working nucleus for Coach McIntyre. With the team fairly balanced this year's team witnessed strong competition in their games.

Representing Peninsula High School, the Baseball team traveled over spring vacation playing at schools located in lower and eastern Washington. This trip was financed completely by the players selling cord wood to area residents in the fall.

The individuality of being on a track team helps each participant be true to himself in determining and recovering his own ability. In an individual sport there is no one but yourself to blame if you do poorly. Only the individual knows how hard he will turn out and how hard he will push his body during the meet.

In track and field there is more challenge than just running as hard as you can. There is a great deal of form and technique involved in running any distance. And also the field events use many skills which require their own special talents.

A closeness develops between the team members who compete with each other during practice to improve themselves. During the interschool contests everyone performs better because of these challenging workouts.

The '71 team had hopes for a fine season. Twelve lettermen returned from last year's team to form a powerful nucleus. Two of these men, Mark Metsker and Bruce Bronson already held the school records in the 400 yard dash and the 2 mile run respectively. Coach Pulisevich saw that the added depth to an already strong team would help to get the team far in the league.

Racket Squad Gains Ability

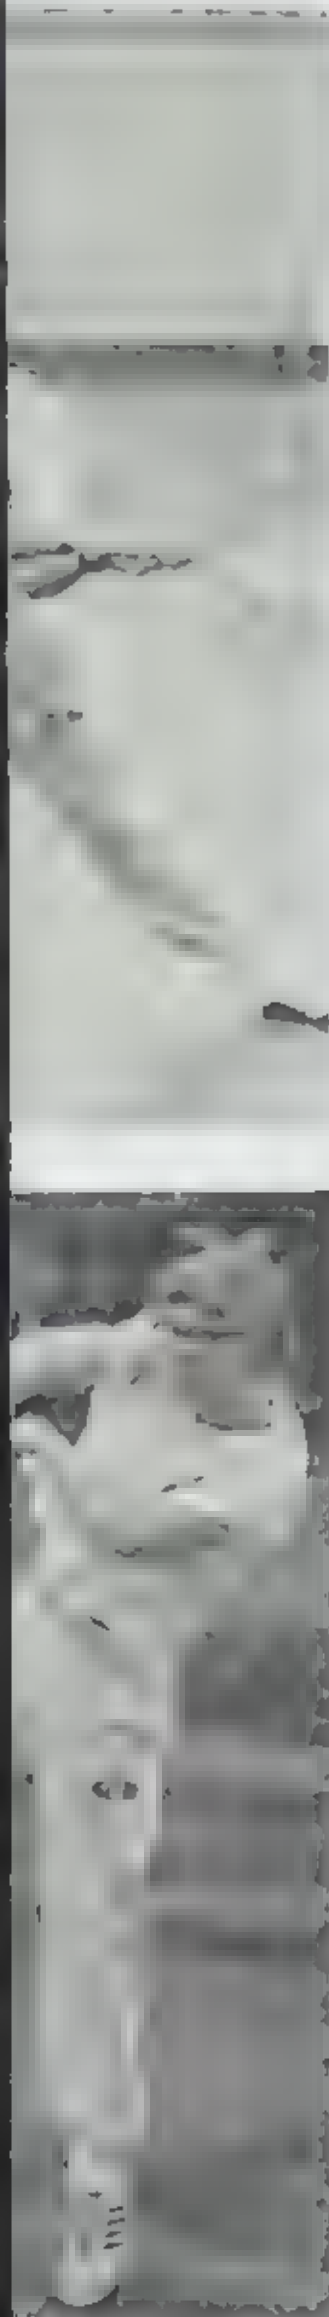

A tennis player's key asset is his strategy of anticipation. If the player can out guess an opponent's movement he will know how to trap him into making difficult shots.

Although there is a lot of running, a tennis player's main physical advantage must lie in his wrists. Good stroking form plus strong wrists to make the long stretching shots often provides one player the advantage.

Coach Kingsbury of the Peninsula net players of 1971 saw the return of the entire varsity squad from last year. Most notable was Barb Skurdall who has lettered in tennis the last three years, and is a feared opponent in the league. Returning for the boys was letterwinner Dave Small. With many new members turning out this year the Coach worked to add depth to his strong nucleus.

Three Years of High School

Juniors entered their third year with a bang! They felt experienced, and ready to tackle anything. They quickly became involved with everything from sports to clubs and other activities.

Homecoming was an exciting event, with juniors participating more than ever, becoming the class with the most spirit. They wound up the week by electing Marc Ross and Barb Olson as junior prince and princess. Varsity cheerleaders Lori Watling and Patty Cone worked hard to guide the juniors throughout the entire year.

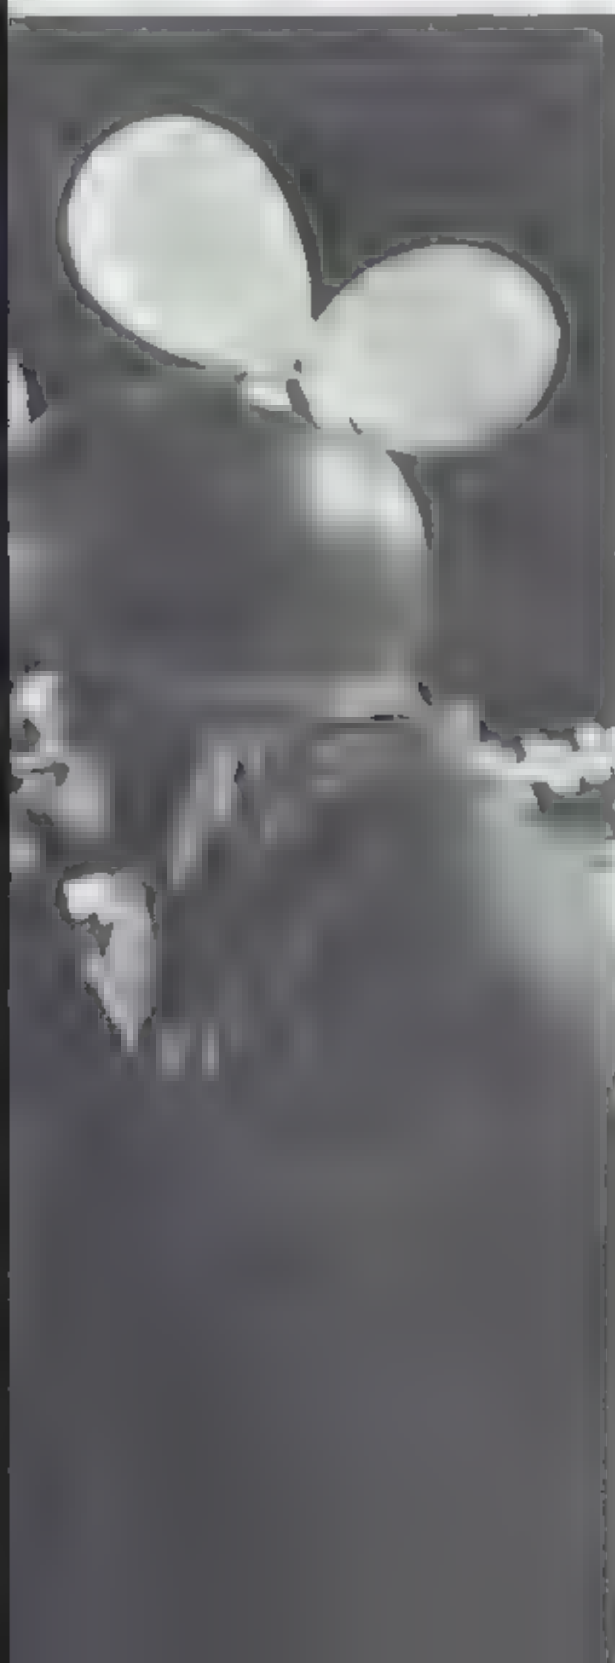

One exciting new change for the juniors was having the Junior Prom in November instead of later in the spring. This meant the whole class would be included and must work together in order to make the prom a success. After long hours of planning and hard work, they created a fascinating "Sea of Enchantment." During the dance, Thad Metsker and Chris Anderson were crowned as King and Queen.

This year the class advisors, Mr. McIntyre and Mrs. Schilling, worked closely with the juniors, guiding them through meetings, expenses, and events.

The all-important election of the year resulted with Paul Henderson as president, Dave Krussow as vice president, Devon Fleming as secretary, and Luann Bice as treasurer. These competent officers governed the affairs of the junior class.

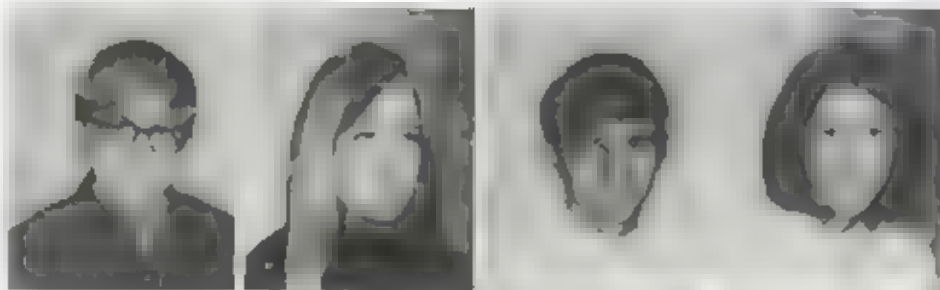

This year, the class of '72 took on an increasing amount of responsibilities and for the most part, handled them very well. They became more mature, unselfish, and caring students. With the growth of these qualities, the juniors are sure to become reliable leaders of Peninsula.

Various Activities

What made this year's Senior class so outstanding? Two hundred Seniors who displayed enthusiasm, spirit, cooperation and leadership. They set an example that the underclassmen were proud to follow. There were many activities sponsored by the Senior class and they worked toward each new goal with determination. At Homecoming the Seniors revealed their energies by constructing a Trojan Horse which bore the ensignia "Beware of Seahawks Bearing Gifts." Class spirit was also shown by the putting up of a Christmas tree in the Senior Lounge. During the day one could walk into the lounge and feel a quiet that is often hard to find. There was an overall awareness and concern for each other, new friends were made, new experiences were had.

Representing the class, President Gordon Brindley, Vice President: Mark Metsker, Secretary, Debbie Reynolds, and Treasurer Wendy Eldredge. The class advisors were Mrs. Black and Mr. Beier.

"A Walk in the Park" - Junior

Prom '70

Every year it is the same. You plan for months ahead, the decorations, the band, the photographer, souvenirs, royalty. You suddenly realize your plans are really pretty vague. So the big day arrives. And what do you do with forty kids in a rented gym? So the situation looked to Marce Sether and Rick Jensen, Junior Prom co-chairmen for the graduating class of seventy one. Decoration day always starts this way. And in this case there was everything under the sun stuffed into that tiny gym, from trees, to water fountains and zoo cages, to stolen park benches. But somehow, mostly during the last hour, things really started to take shape. By the end of the day the gym at Harbor Heights lived up to the theme "A Walk in the Park." And with the special musical effects presented by Cherry Frost the evening was termed a success by all present.

"I Remember Mama" - First Play

In the winter play "I Remember Mama" the actors and directors met with many new challenges: the new Performing Arts Center, Spring Musical try outs, lack of lighting equipment, and curtains, and the ever present lack of sun. Outwitting man and nature, the cast and crew opened their show on March 10. The cast played to a near full house Wednesday and Thursday and a full house Friday night.

JUST ANOTHER (above) one of those sweet, lovable big mouthed seniors.

JIM MILLER (below) prepares for the catch.

SO, (upper left) after 25 years of marriage, it all comes out!

WHO ELSE (lower left) but Rick Peterson would eat jello with a fork?

Friday morning, Nov. 23, approximately 60 juniors left for Harbor Heights School to convert the elementary gym into a "Sea of Enchantment." Co-chairmen Thad Metsker and Martha Blum contributed long hours of planning and organization to make the dance a success. Under the supervision of advisors Mr. McIntyre and Mrs. Schillinger, the day was spent hammering, painting, spreading sand, and making extra trips to round up forgotten finishing touches.

That night, couples entered through a long tunnel to see a lighthouse, whale, the city of Atlantis, and other wonders of the sea. The band, Shiloh, played through the night, surrounded by a giant serpent.

Reigning over the Junior Prom were: King Thad Metsker and Queen Chris Anderson, Prince Mike Sowers and Princess Devon Fleming, Prince Paul Henderson and Princess Martha Blum, and Prince Jay Fox and Princess Luann Bice.

"Love American Style" was the theme of the annual Girl's Club Tolo held March 26 at the Lakewood Buffet. Elected king and queen were Mike Darling and Jill Hofferber. Completing the court were freshmen Jill Anderson and Donovan Farwell, sophomores Paula Eldridge and Chuck McGinty, juniors Kim Bujacich and Evan Ritchie, and seniors Chris Kurtis and Mark Metsker.

The group of people in the photograph above are the members of the Glee Club, who are singing in front of the building. The man in the center is Mr. M. A. [unclear], who is the president of the club. The woman next to him is Miss [unclear], who is the secretary. The other people in the photograph are the members of the club.

HOW COULD WE FORGET "CLASS CUT-UP" (lower left) Carol Crosby and Greg Knowles?

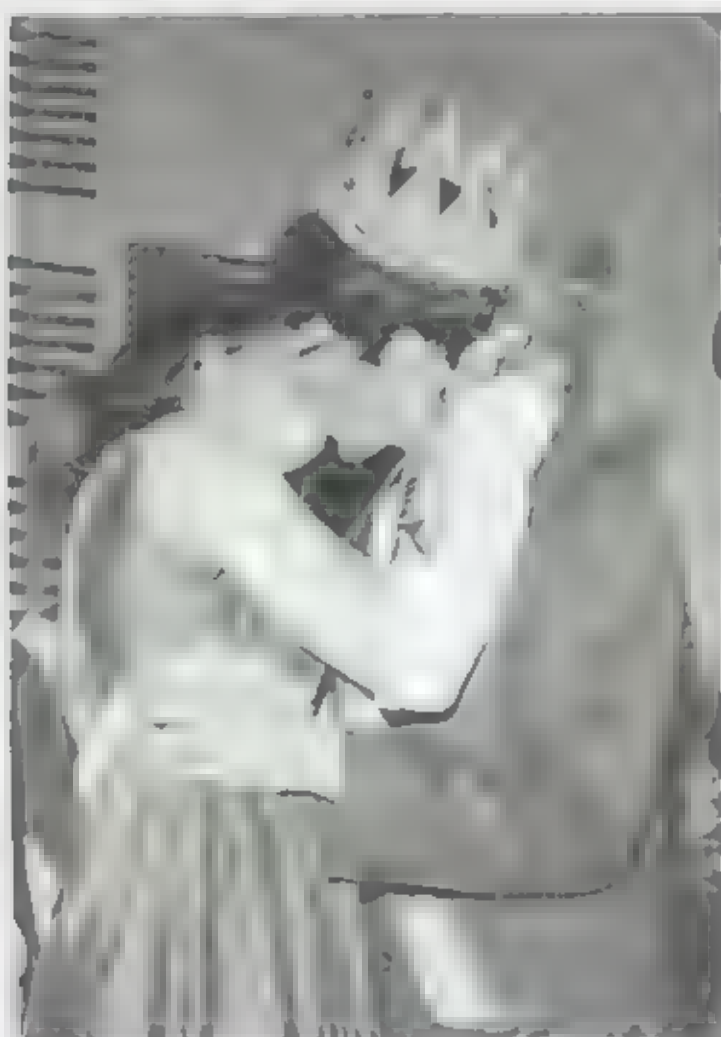

The Senior Ball was held on April 22. It was the first time the senior dance had ever been held in the spring. The seniors were also the first ones to use our gym for a formal dance, since the reconstruction.

The halls seemed empty on Friday, without the seniors attending classes. But looking into the gym, the missing persons were found, working under the direction of co-chairmen Doug Quackenbush and Barb Sather. With the theme "God Bless America," colors of red, white, and blue dominated as seniors created scenes from Paul Revere's ride, to man's first moon-walk. They put long hours into decorating the gym for their last fling.

That night, couples danced to music by "The National Bank of Sound." During the dance, royalty was announced: King and Queen Niesz and Wendy Eldridge, Prince and Princess John Wade and Tammy Hulme, Prince and Princess Rick Peterson and Mary Coffel, and Prince and Princess Kelly Fandel and Nikki Pritchett.

HALL

Thursday evening, June third, marked the graduation of the class of nineteen hundred and seventy-one. The weather had threatened the graduation ceremony, but the rain held off just long enough for the class to receive their diplomas. Speakers at the event were Rob Jones, class choice; Mike Snowden, faculty choice; and Barb Skurdall and Cheri Cozort, co-valedictorians.

Cheri also received the Tacoma Area Elks Honor Award, Reader's Digest Gift Subscription and Honors at Entrance and Scholarship for the University of Puget Sound. Barb Skurdall received Honors at Entrance to Arizona State University. Dave Tarabochia, the class salutatorian, received the Nellie Martin Carman Scholarship. Janet Bogue was the recipient of Honors at Entrance at University of Puget Sound. Dan Smith received the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps College Scholarship and a Scholarship to Whitman College in Walla Walla. Mae Maeshiro, Doug Quackenbush, Rob Jones, and Teresa Hamel were all recipients of the Charitable Trust Scholarship. The Belle Smith Scholarship went to Mike Snowden, Mark Hayward, and Linda Weston. Lynette Knapp received Honors at Entrance and Scholarship to Pacific Lutheran University, the Peninsula Education Association Scholarship, and the Washington Congress of Parents and Teachers Grant. Noel Niemann was the recipient of Honors at Entrance to Linfield College, and the Fortnightly Club Scholarship. Gordon Brindley was also a recipient of the Fortnightly Club Scholarship. Honors at Entrance and Scholarship at Pacific University at Forest Grove, Oregon was received by Sharon Snyder. Kathy Hemerick received Honors at Entrance and Scholarship at University of Puget Sound. Carolyn Pollard and James Miller were both recipients of the Kiwanis Sponsorship, while Teresa Spadoni and Mark Speer received the Eagles Vocational Scholarship. The Masonic Vocational Scholarship went to Barbara Swanson and Brice Williams.

Commencement has meant many things to many people. But on the particular evening, to these young adults, it signified the end of one road of life which leads to yet another more promising road to the future.

"NOT TO YIELD" (this page, upper right) was the theme of Cheri Cozort's speech.
